IT IS MOST AMUSING

Was That Alleged Investigation a Joke?

NOT THE QUANTITY, BUT QUALITY

Consumers Want to Know Why the Same Flame This Year Will Only Produce Half the Heat Developed Before the Pumps Were Constructed.

"With all respect to that investigating committee," said a leading machinist of the city, "I can't help but say that not one of them knows the difference between a gas pump and a windmill."

And that is the opinion generally expressed in the city. As another man put it, one can eat a little turkey and fill out the rest of his meal on side meat, knowing that the assertion of his neighbor that he has eaten nothing but turkey is like the greater part of the aeriform fluid dispensed by the gas company—wind. The published report of the investigation looks well enough in print, and having the marks of a paid advertisement, sounds well enough, but it doesn't answer the purpose. The committee may have found nothing to show that the gas is diluted with air, but that does not do away with the fact that the gas dispensed by the company fails to do the work required by customers.

According to the statement of manufacturing potters and firemen who have used gas for many years, the pressure does not indicate the true quantity of gas. Either the pressure is wrong, or the gas is of an inferior quality. The register invariably shows enough gas to fire the kilns, but the practical application proves that it will not half do it. Where a kiln could easily be fired a short time ago, firemen now find they do not succeed in getting the required heat, yet the flame seems to be as large. The same condition has been found in private houses. A grate or stove gives out a great noise as though the pressure was all that could be asked, but the heat is not at all satisfactory. No one complains about the pressure; in fact, those who have meters think there is entirely too much of it for the heat. The committee found something about the quantity of gas, but did not make known the result of their investigation as to quality. That is what the consumers want to know.

Changes are in progress at a number of potteries, and in a few days gas will be a thing of the past with them. The East Liverpool company will use coal after Dec. 1. Their gas bills have been $900 a month, while it is said the other business of the gas company with the potteries has averaged about $7,000 a month.

The published report of the alleged investigation is accepted for what it is worth, a paid advertisement. The members of the committee, knowing nothing of machinery, are not in position to give an expert opinion. What the city wants is some explanation of why a given quantity of flame does not give out the same heat that same flame would produce a year ago. Wind in an irresponsible newspaper is as worthless as wind in a gas pipe.

"We don't care anything about the details of their plant, nor yet about the number of miles and the size of pipe used between McCauslin's mill and Liverpool; but we do want to know why we pay so much money for such little heat," is the way one leading manufacturer put it.

CUBA AND ARMENIA.

Each Received Recognition at the Union Services.

The First M. E. church was well filled at the union services yesterday morning. Doctor Huston lead the meeting, and Doctor Lee made the opening prayer. Doctor Taggart read the scripture lesson, and the sermon was delivered by Rev. O. S. Reed. It was an eloquent effort in which he showed this to be the chosen land and the chosen people. He expressed the hope that the struggles of Cuba would soon be over, and victory would crown the movement for independence. Doctor Taggart made the closing prayer, imploring the help of God in freeing Armenia from the yoke of the Turk. E. K. Macrum presided at the organ, and excellent music was rendered by Miss Pearl Sebring, Mrs. W. L. Murphy, C. E. Macrum and C. L. Gray.

ABSOLUTE ROBBERY.

The Law Cannot Reach the Unprincipled Parties

There stands out a case, in bold relief, of absolute robbery occurring in East Liverpool. The shameless work has been going on for some time, and the dishonest scoundrels engaged in the nefarious dealings have been fattening their purses and increasing their bank accounts by and through processes alongside of which highway robbery is a creditable measure. A halt has been called on the rascality at last, and the perpetrators will be compelled to seek new fields for ill-gotten gains—money which will, as sure as fate, prove a curse to those who secured it through such dishonorable measures. The great pity is that the law cannot step in and punish such creatures. They are cunning in their meanness and rascality, however, and have so covered their tracks as to make legal punishment next to impossible. A number of good men and true in this city of East Liverpool are acquainted with all the facts in the case, and they will become instruments, in the hands of justice, in making it extremely warm and unpleasant for the rascals, and the fellows may yet receive their just dues, even upon this earth. "The mills of the gods grind slowly; but they grind exceeding small."

A SUSPICIOUS DEATH.

Mrs. Sullivan Was Well a Few Minutes Before She Died.

LISBON, Nov. 27.—[Special]—Coroner Stranghn is this afternoon holding an inquest over the body of Mrs. Mary Sullivan, wife of John Sullivan, a roller in the tin mill. Until a few minutes before she died yesterday the woman was in apparent good health. The autopsy this morning developed that an injury to her brain caused death. It is feared the cause of this will never be known, but it might be the result of a fall she received some time ago. The testimony to the present time has shed no light on the mystery.

Carrie, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Warner, died last night after being ill a few days with typhoid fever.

J. M. Calhoun, mail agent on the Pittsburg, Lisbon & Western railroad, died this morning at New Gallilee.

WELLSVILLE WON.

The Visitors Got the Honors at the Shoot.

The local gun club held an interesting tournament in East End yesterday afternoon. The members of the organization and a number of Wellsville shooters were present, the latter contestants carrying off the honors. Blue rocks were used, and many good scores were made. There were eight events. In the first race Welch, of Wellsville, missed but three times out of 25 and won first money. Foutts was second with 21, and Cable third with 20. The remainder were 10 bird events. Parsons, of Wellsville, won one event, and was tied four times for first place. Crable was tied twice for first place and Foutts three times. Welch made 10 straights and got first money.

A GOOD PROGRAM

Was Given at Professor Harper's Song Recital.

Professor Harper, assisted by a splendid array of local talent, gave another of his delightful recitals at the First U. P. church last evening. The room was crowded, many persons being turned away. The program was all that could be asked, and the music even better than at the previous entertainments. The interest manifested in the recitals shows that Professor Harper has hit upon the right plan to educate the city to good music.

The next recital will be held in the opera house some time next month. Seats will be reserved under the plan adopted last night, but 600 will be free. Only the music of Stephen Foster will be rendered.

The lodge is in a prosperous condition, and has taken in a number of new members recently. The installation of the new officers will take place next Wednesday evening.

ECLIPSE WON A GAME

Crescent Went Down Before Hard Playing.

NO SCORE FOR WELLSVILLE

They Could Not Make a Point—McLane and Gossett Did Some Good Running. More than a Thousand People Saw the Best Rugby Contest of the Season.

The football game yesterday afternoon between the Eclipse and Crescent teams drew a very large crowd to West End park, and was undoubtedly the best contest of the season. Ropes had been stretched, and with the aid of two policemen the crowd were kept off the gridiron in the first time in the history of football in the city. The game was cleanly played, and there was very little kicking. Wellsville had sent to Martin's Ferry and received the services of Long and Williams, of the Vigilants, to help them out. Over a thousand people saw the game.

A few minutes after 3 o'clock the game was called, and in the toss Wellsville took the ball. Long punted to the 10 yard line, the ball was caught by Gossett and carried for five yards where he was downed. The ball was lost on a fumble, but Wellsville lost it on downs, and McCurran punted. It was caught by Long, who was downed immediately. Wellsville lost on downs once more, and center bucking carried the ball well into their territory, when McCurran punted again. It was fumbled by Long, and Eclipse secured the ball. McLane ran around the end for a touchdown, and McCurran kicked goal. The same tactics were adopted by the home team after the lineup, McCurran punting and bucking the center. When the ball had reached the Wellsville 10-yard line it was lost on downs. The Crescents were held for two downs when Long dropped back for a kick. The kick was blocked by McLane, who caught up the ball and crossed the line for the second touchdown. McCurran failed to kick goal, and the first half closed with the ball in Wellsville territory, and a score of 10-0 in favor of East Liverpool.

In the second half McCurran kicked off, and the ball was caught by Brockett, who advanced it five yards before being downed by Hall. Crescent succeeded in gaining about 20 yards before losing on downs. McCurran punted, and the ball was once more in the possession of Eclipse. Cloherty fumbled, and a few minutes later Gossett was sent over the line for the third touchdown. McCurran kicked goal, and the score stood 16-0. The fourth and last touchdown was made by McCurran, who went around the right end for a 25 yard run and a touchdown. He failed to kick goal, leaving the score 20-0. There were but five minutes yet to play when the teams lined up, and the Eclipse boys were anxious to secure another touchdown before the game was over. They played hard and fast, and Gossett went around the left end for a long run his interference being good, but when within two feet of the line he was downed just as the whistle blew and the game was over.

The teams lined up as follows:
ECLIPSE. Position. CRESCENT.
Herbert.....Left end.....Brown

ROOSTER AND TUB.

Both Were Stolen by Some Unscrupulous One.

A well known downtown resident, Wednesday evening, heard someone in his chicken coop. He got up, and going to the door, saw a man about to wring the neck of his pet rooster. He asked the man what he was doing, and the fellow dropped the chicken and ran. The gentleman went back in the house, and waited for a short time, then went out in the yard, and capturing the rooster, placed it under a tub. The next morning the tub and rooster had both disappeared.

MYSTERY

Surrounds a Telegram Received From Chicago.

A few days ago Mrs. Bloor, of Market street, received a telegram purporting to have been sent by her son Herbert Bloor, of Chicago. The message stated that her son was very ill, without money and wanted $50. Investigation showed that the telegram was a fraud, and Herbert Bloor knew nothing about it. He was not ill, neither did he want money. Now he wants to know who used his name for the purpose of getting money.

A THANKSGIVING DRUNK.

It Landed Mrs. Anne Hauck In City Hall.

Mrs. Anne Hauck celebrated Thanksgiving by getting boiling drunk, and resisting the officers when they attempted to arrest her. At a late hour she was given a hearing and fined $10.

Edward H. Wright, aged 73, was drunk on Sixth street Wednesday evening. He fell near the Grand, and was rendered senseless. The patrol took him to city hall, but he was released without a charge being entered.

SEVERED AN ARTERY.

Charles Wooley Almost Died From Loss of Blood.

Charles Wooley, who lives in a shanty boat at the foot of Jefferson street, this morning while making a handle for a hammer, accidentally let the knife slip, and severed an artery in his left arm. The wound was tied up at once, and he started for the office of a physician, but upon reaching Fourth street he became so weak from loss of blood that assistance was necessary before he could proceed.

IN PRIVATE SESSION.

Committees of Council Will Settle the Light Question.

The light question will, in all probability, be disposed of this evening, as the finance and light committees will meet in joint session with Judge Smith, of the light company. The committees comprise six members of council, and the other members will be invited to attend, so that whatever action is taken will be final. The session will be held in private.

GAVE TO THE POOR.

A Substantial Donation From the First M. E. Church.

The ladies of the First M. E. church fed 545 persons yesterday at their dinner, and made $118 profit. Twenty-six turkeys, 20 chickens, several hams, and an ocean of other eatables were disposed of. This morning they sent 25 baskets of provisions to the poor of the city. The dinner was among the best and most successful ever given in the city.

GOOD SLEIGHING.

They Are Having It Out In South Dakota.

Fred Ohlendorf arrived yesterday afternoon from Sioux Falls, S. D., where he is employed on the street car line as motorman. He spent Thanksgiving with his parents in the city, and left for the west this afternoon. Fred likes the west very well, and says when he started east they had good sleighing and a foot of ice.

WMILLEN THE MAN.

He Will Likely Get the Place of Officer Meador.

The vacancy caused by the resignation of Officer Harry Meador has not yet been filled, but Mayor Gilbert will make an appointment tomorrow. It is believed that the plum will fall to Fireman McMillen whose experience as patrolman qualifies him for the place. Constable Tony Bortele was on the force yesterday.

NO DIPHTHERIA.

The Only Patients Under Quarantine Are Recovering.

For the first time in two months the city is practically free from diphtheria as the patients in the two houses now under quarantine are convalescent, and the houses will soon be fumigated. The health officer is now of the opinion the disease has gone for the season, and no new cases are expected.

A SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Croxall Entertained Their Friends.

Twenty-five years ago yesterday Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Croxall were married, and the anniversary was very pleasantly observed. Among the guests were a number of persons who attended the wedding. It was a delightful event.

Surprised Mr. McKinnon.

The young man was agreeably surprised, and the guests spent the evening in music and games. A bountiful repast was served, and Mr. McKinnon was the recipient of many handsome presents.

Holiness Taylor In Palestine.

Rev. B. S. Taylor, who is well known in this city, will preach in East Palestine next Sunday.

OUT FOR PROTECTION

McKinkley Club Wants No Makeshift Bill.

OPPOSED TO DINGLEY'S MEASURE

A Strong Resolution Passed Last Night. The Organization Wants Congressman Taylor to Take a Stand Against a Bill That is Simply For Revenue.

The McKinkley club voiced the sentiment of East Liverpool when it last night declared in favor of a protective tariff.

The resolution can not be misunderstood, and gives the sentiment of the club without trimmings. It simply declares against any makeshift measure, and in favor of an out and out protective tariff. It is opposed to the Dingley bill, and expresses the wish that congress will pass a tariff bill on Republican lines. The secretary was instructed to notify Hon. R. W. Taylor of the club's view, and to ask him to use his influence in securing the passage of a purely protective tariff bill.

D. J. Smith addressed the club on the "Reform of Civil Service Reform," and succeeded in exciting so much interest that the question will form the basis of a discussion for the next meeting. John S. Goodwin, Hon. A. H. McCoy and Mr. Smith will speak on the subject, and a resolution declaring the sentiment of the club will be passed.

WENT TO THE BOTTOM.

The Ollie Neville Took In Too Much Water.

The Ollie Neville spent her Thanksgiving at the bottom of the river, the boat having gone down before dawn yesterday morning.

Jim Grimm, the night ferryman, and Samuel Martin were asleep on the boat when they were awakened by a shock. Hurriedly arising they saw a perfect flood of water in the boat, and made haste to escape. The river is shallow at that point, and the water only covered the deck of the craft. The hull was full, and the machinery will be damaged. A telegram brought the Hunter, of Pittsburg, to the wharf, and the pumps were started at once. The water seemed to rush in as fast as it was pumped out, and little headway was made. No work was done last night, but some progress was made this morning, and it will not be long until the ferryboat floats again. Captain Pusey says the water came through a waste pipe used in discharging ashes. The pipe extends from the boiler through the bottom of the hold, and he believes it rusted through.

OUR SOLDIER BOYS

Will Surely Have a Place in the Inauguration Parade.

The announcement is made that the Cleveland Grays will be the personal escort of Major McKinkley in the inaugural parade, but that does not change the arrangement for having the Eighth infantry take part in the big demonstration. No formal announcement has been made, but it is understood among the officers of the Eighth that the regiment will share the honors with the troop.

CROSSED THE BRIDGE.

It Took Three Hours to Make the Round Trip.

ROOSTER AND TUB.

Both Were Stolen by Some Unscrupulous One.

A well known downtown resident, Wednesday evening, heard someone in his chicken coop. He got up, and going to the door, saw a man about to wring the neck of his pet rooster. He asked the man what he was doing, and the fellow dropped the chicken and ran. The gentleman went back in the house, and waited for a short time, then went out in the yard, and capturing the rooster, placed it under a tub. The next morning the tub and rooster had both disappeared.

MYSTERY

Surrounds a Telegram Received From Chicago.

A few days ago Mrs. Bloor, of Market street, received a telegram purporting to have been sent by her son Herbert Bloor, of Chicago. The message stated that her son was very ill, without money and wanted $50. Investigation showed that the telegram was a fraud, and Herbert Bloor knew nothing about it. He was not ill, neither did he want money. Now he wants to know who used his name for the purpose of getting money.

A THANKSGIVING DRUNK.

It Landed Mrs. Anne Hauck In City Hall.

Mrs. Anne Hauck celebrated Thanksgiving by getting boiling drunk, and resisting the officers when they attempted to arrest her. At a late hour she was given a hearing and fined $10.

Edward H. Wright, aged 73, was drunk on Sixth street Wednesday evening. He fell near the Grand, and was rendered senseless. The patrol took him to city hall, but he was released without a charge being entered.

SEVERED AN ARTERY.

Charles Wooley Almost Died From Loss of Blood.

Charles Wooley, who lives in a shanty boat at the foot of Jefferson street, this morning while making a handle for a hammer, accidentally let the knife slip, and severed an artery in his left arm. The wound was tied up at once, and he started for the office of a physician, but upon reaching Fourth street he became so weak from loss of blood that assistance was necessary before he could proceed.

IN PRIVATE SESSION.

Committees of Council Will Settle the Light Question.

The light question will, in all probability, be disposed of this evening, as the finance and light committees will meet in joint session with Judge Smith, of the light company. The committees comprise six members of council, and the other members will be invited to attend, so that whatever action is taken will be final. The session will be held in private.

GAVE TO THE POOR.

A Substantial Donation From the First M. E. Church.

The ladies of the First M. E. church fed 545 persons yesterday at their dinner, and made $118 profit. Twenty-six turkeys, 20 chickens, several hams, and an ocean of other eatables were disposed of. This morning they sent 25 baskets of provisions to the poor of the city. The dinner was among the best and most successful ever given in the city.

GOOD SLEIGHING.

They Are Having It Out in South Dakota.

Fred Ohlendorf arrived yesterday afternoon from Sioux Falls, S. D., where he is employed on the street car line as motorman. He spent Thanksgiving with his parents in the city, and left for the west this afternoon. Fred likes the west very well, and says when he started east they had good sleighing and a foot of ice.

WMILLEN THE MAN.

He Will Likely Get the Place of Officer Meador.

The vacancy caused by the resignation of Officer Harry Meador has not yet been filled, but Mayor Gilbert will make an appointment tomorrow. It is believed that the plum will fall to Fireman McMillen whose experience as patrolman qualifies him for the place. Constable Tony Bertele was on the force yesterday.

NO DIPHTHERIA.

The Only Patients Under Quarantine Are Recovering.

For the first time in two months the city is practically free from diphtheria as the patients in the two houses now under quarantine are convalescent, and the houses will soon be fumigated. The health officer is now of the opinion the disease has gone for the season, and no new cases are expected.

A SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Croxall Entertained Their Friends.

Twenty-five years ago yesterday Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Croxall were married, and the anniversary was very pleasantly observed. Among the guests were a number of persons who attended the wedding. It was a delightful event.

Surprised Mr. McKinnon.

Wednesday evening about 50 friends of Samuel McKinnon called at his home on Lincoln avenue to remind him it was his twentieth anniversary. The young man was agreeably surprised, and the guests spent the evening in music and games. A bountiful repast was served, and Mr. McKinnon was the recipient of many handsome presents.

Holliness Taylor In Palestine.

Rev. B. S. Taylor, who is well known in this city, will preach in East Palestine next Sunday.

OUT FOR PROTECTION

McKinley Club Wants No Makeshift Bill.

OPPOSED TO DINGLEY'S MEASURE

A Strong Resolution Passed Last Night. The Organization Wants Congressman Taylor to Take a Stand Against a Bill That Is Simply For Revenue.

The McKinley club voiced the sentiment of East Liverpool when it last night declared in favor of a protective tariff.

The resolution can not be misunderstood, and gives the sentiment of the club without trimmings. It simply declares against any makeshift measure, and in favor of an out and out protective tariff. It is opposed to the Dingley bill, and expresses the wish that congress will pass a tariff bill on Republican lines. The secretary was instructed to notify Hon. R. W. Taylor of the club's view, and to ask him to use his influence in securing the passage of a purely protective tariff bill.

D. J. Smith addressed the club on the "Reform of Civil Service Reform," and succeeded in exciting so much interest that the question will form the basis of a discussion for the next meeting. John S. Goodwin, Hon. A. H. McCoy and Mr. Smith will speak on the subject, and a resolution declaring the sentiment of the club will be passed.

WENT TO THE BOTTOM.

The Ollie Neville Took In Too Much Water.

The Ollie Neville spent her Thanksgiving at the bottom of the river, the boat having gone down before dawn yesterday morning.

Jim Grimm, the night ferryman, and Samuel Martin were asleep on the boat when they were awakened by a shock. Hurriedly arising they saw a perfect flood of water in the boat, and made haste to escape. The river is shallow at that point, and the water only covered the deck of the craft. The hull was full, and the machinery will be damaged. A telegram brought the Hunter, of Pittsburg, to the wharf, and the pumps were started at once. The water seemed to rush in as fast as it was pumped out, and little headway was made. No work was done last night, but some progress was made this morning, and it will not be long until the ferryboat floats again. Captain Pusey says the water came through a waste pipe used in discharging ashes. The pipe extends from the boiler through the bottom of the hold, and he believes it rusted through.

OUR SOLDIER BOYS

Will Surely Have a Place in the Inauguration Parade.

The announcement is made that the Cleveland Grays will be the personal escort of Major McKinley in the inaugural parade, but that does not change the arrangement for having the Eighth infantry take part in the big demonstration. No formal announcement has been made, but it is understood among the officers of the Eighth that the regiment will share the honors with the troop.

CROSSED THE BRIDGE.

It Took Three Hours to Make the Round Trip.

Wednesday evening Thomas Cartwright wagered a dollar with James Byland that he was afraid to walk across the bridge. The wager was accepted, and the party started at 9 o'clock, and by walking, crawling and clinging to the hangers the journey across and back was made in three hours.

The Simms Case.

Lisbon, Nov. 27.—[Special]—Judge Robinson will hold court here next week, when the suit of J. H. Simms against the county commissioners will be tried.

The suit of Lucretia Wilkins against M. J. Coulson was settled. A marriage license was granted Joseph Bradley and Ida Buckley, of East Liverpool.

A Young Lady Dead.

The 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGillivray died this morning at her home between Second and Third streets, after an attack of typhoid pneumonia. No arrangements for the funeral have yet been made.

Jiggermen Reorganized.

The jiggermen met Wednesday evening and reorganized and elected officers. There was a good turnout, and matters pertaining to the trade were thoroughly discussed. They will meet again next Thursday evening.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, NOV. 27

EVERY body seemed to be thankful.

There is a growing sentiment that the next postmaster should be chosen by the people.

There is little danger of Columbiana county dropping out of public notice as long as Demon Marlatt survives.

CHEERING indeed are the reports from all parts of the country. Even the silver states of the west seem to have taken another breath, with the determination to prosper.

The improvement in the crockery trade continues, with every assurance that there will be no cessation until Christmas. Then look out for big business next year.

If the weather men of the metropolitan press know anything about it, the coming winter will be the greatest demonstration of mean weather ever known in the country.

The claims of the Populists amount to nothing, since Secretary Morton shows in his report that 72 per cent of the farms of this country are without mortgages or other incumbrances.

It may not be policy for this government to interfere to prevent the outrages in the Armenian country, but it would certainly be an exhibition of humanity demanded of our boasted Christian principles.

Not a day passes without some congressman of sound sense declaring against the Dingley bill and in favor of a protective measure. They realize that a Republican congress should enact Republican legislation.

If the Republican leaders will but shut out the gold Democrats who claim recognition for their efforts in the late campaign, and not allow their low tariff ideas to find a place in the next administration, there is no doubt about the return of prosperity.

THOMAS F. BAYARD, our Democratic ambassador to England, again showed his contempt for things American by refusing the invitation of the American society in London, yesterday. One good result of the election will be the removal of Mr. Bayard, it is hoped, as soon as possible.

When the Democrats have no other question to occupy their time, they turn their attention to some fancied war of factions in the Republican party. Having been soundly thrashed for a number of years in Ohio they have started on the old lines, and are laying awake at nights thinking of how they can show the Sherman men standing over Governor Bushnell with a knife at that gentleman's throat.

INTELLIGENT IMMIGRANTS.

A congressional committee now has in its keeping a bill, introduced during the last session, which says that ignorant foreigners shall not come to the United States to take up a residence. The bill will be reported early in the coming session, and there is no good reason why it should not be made a law at the earliest opportunity. When the country was prosperous and the word spread through southern Europe that America was the home for the poor man, thousands of the ignorant and debased crossed the ocean. They were offered every inducement and advantage by the steamship companies, and swarmed every port on the Atlantic seaboard. The hard times stopped the flood. There were no special advantages here, and they remained at home. All the world knows what that indiscriminate admission of foreigners has cost the country. There is no need to point out the evils of admitting the pauper and criminal classes to our land. We are about to have prosperity again. Within a few years the tide will swell with even greater numbers than in the past. We have no room for them, and congress cannot begin to soon to take the steps that will result in shutting them out.

NOT GOOD EVIDENCE.

It Is an Easy Matter to Change Photographic Pictures.

Photographic copies of an original, it is claimed, are not acceptable as proof before a court, inasmuch as the photographs may easily be changed to suit the wish. Expert picture makers can take a photograph, and by various processes secure a composite containing several features desired that did not exist in the original.

A celebrated photographer of this city declared that it is an easy matter to change photographs. Pictures can be made to show the body of one person with the head of another, or it is possible to insert certain features desired in a photograph. The producers of art photographs often use the form of one subject and the head of another in order to obtain the most symmetrical results and thus form a sort of composite picture.

"By the use of nitric acid," he said, "any part of the silver print photograph, the one commonly used, can be erased. If the picture were a platinum print, which is unlikely, the same effect could be secured by the use of aqua regia or a liquid composed of a mixture of nitric and muriatic acids, which acts as a solvent for gold or platinum prints." It was shown that original signatures could be erased and others pasted or copied thereon and then a photograph taken which would seem that the result was a perfect photograph of an original paper.—Philadelphia Call.

The first manufactory of edged tools, including axes, hatchets, chisels and cutlery, was opened in Hartford, in the year 1826. Previous to that date it is said that coarse butcher knives and hunting knives were made by blacksmiths, and the better quality of cutlery was imported from England.

TONSILINE CURES SORE THROAT.

Read what a well-known Minister writes us about Tonsiline:
East Palestine, O., April 8, 1895.
The Tonsiline Co.:
I take pleasure in saying that we have used Tonsiline in the family for ulcerated sore throat, and it not only seemed to prevent the attack from being so severe as formerly, but cured the throat completely in a very few days. When any one of us has sore throat of any kind, the rush is for the Tonsiline bottle, and that is the last of it. It is certainly a most excellent remedy.
Yours very truly,

A CLANKING GHOST.

Awful Experience of a Chicago Man in a Missouri Hotel.

"The most disagreeable experience in my travels," said the man from Chicago, "was when I awakened in the middle of the night in a Missouri hotel and heard a chain clank in my room. I don't know whether it is the association of a clanking chain that makes the sound so dismal or the mere fact of being awakened by a noise that shows the presence of something living, but I don't know of a more unpleasant awakening."

"I sat up in bed, but could see nothing, for the room was as dark as a pocket, and my heart thumped with suspense as I heard that weird clank, clank, clank, accompanied by a strange shuffling noise that was quite as mysterious and baffling. I reached under my pillow and drew out my—"

"Revolver?" suggested the man who finishes everybody's sentences.

"Now, my whisky flask. I took a pull that would have made my wife give me a temperance lecture if she could have seen me—"

"And what became of it?"

"The whisky?"

"No, no, the clanking ghost."

"Well, I fell off to sleep after awhile, and when I got up in the morning and investigated, I found out what it was."

"A maniac?"

"No; I was the only maniac. It was curled up under my bed, chain and all, and it turned out to be a pet coon that the hotel people owned and which had escaped from its quarters and found its way to my room. But I wouldn't put in another night like that for a farm and wood lot!"—St. Louis Republic.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

THOUGHTS SUGGESTED BY THE ANNUAL HARVEST FESTIVAL.

Its Origin and Ancient Manner of Observance—Its Modern Significance—The Country Feast—A Tempting Banquet. The Perfect Form of Giving Thanks.

An annual harvest festival of Thanksgiving has been by no means peculiar to this country or even to modern ages. Indeed the Hebrews had their harvest festivals, the principal one being the autumn feast of ingathering (feast of the Tabernacles), a thanksgiving for the whole produce of the wine press, of the fruit orchards and the cereals. Similarly, too, the Greeks and Romans had festival seasons in honor of Demeter or Ceres, the goddess of agriculture. All these were sanctified by religious rite, games and joyous indulgence in the pleasures of the table. So our Thanksgiving day has a noble descent in history, and the Puritans of Massachusetts not only showed their piety, but their scholarship, in some of the old sermons still extant. A discourse of the celebrated Dr. Cotton Mather on Thanksgiving is curious in its learning concerning the prototypes of the Puritan festival among the nations of the past. It shows how well the fathers knew they had linked themselves with a great historic observance.

However the day has become shorn of its religious quality in the minds of the masses, who secretly enjoy the Thanksgiving turkey, its connection with worship is always earnestly enjoined by state and federal proclamations. It is indeed the sole religious festival observed in the United States by virtue of civil authority. The annual practice in New England during colonial times was initiated after awhile by the Dutch and English governors of New York, and the continental congress proclaimed the festival annually during the great war struggle. It remained afterward, however, a purely state affair till, in 1863, President Lincoln began the practice of proclaiming an annual Thanksgiving annually.

In the earlier time Thanksgiving day was the most important of American festivals, for Christmas was looked on with more or less suspicion by the rigid Puritans. Aside from churchgoing, shooting with the rifle at turkeys was the most widespread habit of the day. This is still practiced to some extent in the purely rural communities. Nowadays, however, the overshadowing feature of the holiday in the way of amusements is the prevalence of the great football and other games selected for that date. Our universities make it the occasion of their most brilliant athletic contests. Out of the cities where the more important of these friendly battles would naturally occur local games are arranged which perhaps evoke as much interest among the spectators. It is curious to observe that among all the strong and virile nations this tendency to connect national festivals with athletic contests has been all but universal. Among the Americans, Englishmen and Germans of today, the cognate branches of the Teuton family, this is especially noticeable.

The religious exercises of Thanksgiving nearly always look in some way toward matters of national gratitude rather than those of individual thanks. So we expect the church addresses to be largely of a political character, dealing with topics of public morals. Our ministers naturally avail themselves of this escape valve to discharge views of political questions once a year, and many a good stump speech, as well as some poor ones, have been thus shot from the battery of the pulpit. Not a few of the most powerful and eloquent addresses of Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. Dr. Storrs, Dr. Hall, Dr. E. H. Chapin and other preaching celebrities have owed themselves to this occasion. A sermon delivered by the Rev. Dr. Palmer of New Orleans on Thanksgiving day, 1890, is said to have aroused and crystallized secession oratory did the revolutionary sentiment at the convention of 1861. French statesmen giving pulpit talking may lack pith and fire, it sometimes becomes a projectile of monstrous force and effect.

But, after all is said, one must confess that the true modern significance of Thanksgiving is that of the feast day—the family feast day. It gathers the scattered branches together from far and wide to sacrifice at the altar of family love, where are enshrined the Lares and Penates of the old home. There is something of this feeling, too, at Christmas, but it chiefly touches the individuals of each family branch. Thanksgiving seeks the gathering of the clan and becomes in many cases perhaps the most beautiful and delightful occasion of the year, full of the purest joy and sweetness, a veritable fountain of refreshment. The spectacle of three or four generations of a family assembled together from distant dwelling places under the ancient family roof-tree is charged with the heart's truest poetry. The significance is not that it surfeits the belly with toothsome and succulent dainties, but that it fills the soul with love and sympathy, effervescing anew after long absence.

It is in the country that the finest joys of Thanksgiving are found. They go with turkey and pumpkin pie, not with terrapin and canvasback, with sparkling apple juice, not with champagne. The crisp, pure air, the association of rural life revived again with exhilarating freshness, the warming of family ties, the homely, appetizing dishes, into whose concocting the cook has poured the purest love and joy of the heart as well as fragrant spices and sweets, make up something which no banquet of Lucullus could equal. Many a worldworn spirit has found in such an occasion a new sense flaming out of the ashes of ennui and weariness, that, after all, life is well worth living. And so may it be always.

We have said nothing in this article about the giving of thanks, which the name of the day emphasizes. Well, perhaps the indulgence of love and innocent joy and the new birth of all the best sympathies of one's nature are as perfect a form of thanksgiving to the great Creator of all as prayer and psalm singing within the walls of the chapel. Without the first named all else is but as "sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal."

APPEARANCES.

As the twilight was creeping across the sky from east to west, where the crimson dye

Of a gorgeous sunset was growing wan In the shadows that rise when the sun is gone In a sumptuous languor of dreamy ease And a wrapper resplendent with spots of grease.

On the little back porch of an upper flat The imperial Ethel McFadden sat.

In her beautiful eyes were a look demure And the hint of a soul that was sweetly pure As the morning dew in the pointing buds Or a cake of soap in a tub of suds, And the beautiful face of this West Side queen Was suffused with a saintly, angelic mien.

"How I long, how I long," she soliloquized In a voice a chorus girl would have prized, "To be able to do, to achieve some deed For the suffering victims of sordid greed!" "Are you going to wash up the dishes, my dear?"

Came a voice from the kitchen, invitingly clear.

But a lofty fire in her soul was lit And her red lips unclasped in a clear cut "Niti!"

FLOTATION OF SPIDERS.

An English Writer Discusses the Subject and Cites Some Instances.

In an interesting communication to Knowledge on "Spiders," the Rev. Samuel Barber discusses at some length the phenomenon of the flotation line, and its method of attachment, which is the foundation of the spider's web. Is it not evident, asks the reverend gentleman, that air—and probably at a high temperature—must be inclosed within the meshes of the substance forming the line when it passes from the spinnerets into the atmosphere? The creature with this substance lifts it into the air. It has been usual to explain the ascent by the kite principle—namely, the mechanical force of the contiguous atmosphere—but air movements, especially on a small scale, are so capricious and uncontrollable that without a directive force the phenomena seem quite inexplicable.

In support of this theory of a direct propelling force Mr. Barber gives some of his own observations. Writing one day with two sheets of quarto before him, he saw a small spider on the paper, and in order to test its power of passing through the air he held one of the sheets of paper about a foot from that on which the creature was running. It ascended to the edge and vanished, but in a moment it landed upon the other sheet through midair in a horizontal direction, and picked up the thread as it advanced. In this case there was no air movement to facilitate, nor any time to throw a line upward, which indeed would not have solved the difficulty. On another occasion, at a dinner party in Kent, four candles were lighted on the table, when a thread was seen to be strung from the tip of one of the lighted candles and attached to another about a yard off, and all the four lights were connected in this way, and that by a web drawn quite tight.

The only explanation which Mr. Barber can suggest for this remarkable occurrence is that the spinner was suspended at first by a vertical line from above and thus swayed itself to and fro from tip to tip of the candles. It was certain the spider could not have ascended from the table, and it was equally certain that aerial flotation of the line from a fixed point was impossible, as it involved floating in four opposite directions. The rapidity with which the initial movements in forming a web are made cannot be reconciled with any theory of a simple atmospheric convection, and propulsion appears the only explanation.

Spirited Chemistry.

A French savant thinks that by the year 2000 a spiritual chemistry will have been discovered that should entirely change human nature. This will be greatly due to chemistry utilizing the heat of the sun and tapping the central heat of the globe. Under the reign of chemistry the earth, we are told, will become a vast pleasure garden and the human race will live in peace and plenty.

PUNCH AND JUDY.

The Origin of This Ever Popular English Entertainment.

Generations of children have found pleasure in witnessing the antics of Punch and Judy, and after nearly a century of popularity the mimic theater in which their adventures are displayed still gives amusement to both young and old. The origin of this always attractive entertainment is not English, as many who have enjoyed it may suppose; but, according to an old book, Punch and Judy are of Italian ancestry. In the district of Acozza, near Naples, the people are very much addicted to the making of wine from grapes, and it is curious that from antiquity they have been famous for their love of droll wit and comic fun.

Many years ago, in the season of the vintage, which is a time when everybody seems to be full of fun and frolic, some comic players came along through Acozza. They began to poke fun at the vintagers, and in the war of wit the players got the worst of it.

Now, there was among the vintagers a fellow with an enormous red nose, long and crooked like a powder horn, and he was the very drollest and wittiest of the whole company. The players were so tickled with his witty sayings, all set off by his odd face and very queer air and manner, that they almost went into hysterics with laughter.

After they went away they began to think that this droll fellow would be a great accession to their company; so they went back and made offers to him. These he accepted, and such was the success of his efforts that the company acquired great fame and a great deal of money. Everybody went to see this witty buffoon, and all were delighted.

This example led to the establishment of a droll or buffoon in all companies of comedians, and he was always called after the original one, whose name was Pucco d'Aniello. This was in the course of time softened into Policciello. The French made it Polichinelle, and the English Punchinello. After a time the English, for the sake of brevity, left off the latter part of the word and called it plain Punch.

How Judy originated history does not record, but it is very easy to surmise her story. Such a merry fellow as Punch had as good a right to a wife as anybody, if he could get one. Why not? One might think that his beetlelike nose would have stood in the way of his finding a woman willing to marry him, but his wit was an offset to this. Women are fond of wit, and Punch would have played his part ill if he could not have made it cover his nose.

Now that we have supposed Punch to have had a wife, and also supposed her name to have been Judy, what more natural than for this amiable couple now and then to have had a bit of a breeze? They lived a wandering life, and, like other people in their station, took a little liquor to raise their spirits. After the effect was over, feeling a little peevish, they fell to calling each other hard names, and hard blows followed; so this is their whole history.—Detroit Free Press.

A Check For $700.

There was once a comedian who out-finished Edward E. Rice. Startling as the statement may seem, it is nevertheless true that when this farcure retired from Mr. Rice's company he owed the manager $700. To Mr. Rice the condition was not alone unusual—it was also irksome. One morning, when he was fretting under it, he learned that the actor had secured a first rate engagement at a large salary. He sat down and wrote an urgent letter, finishing with a demand for an immediate remittance of "a check for 700." In due course he received a communication by mail containing a heavy metallic disk. The letter read:

"Dear Ned—Yours received. Find inclosed, as requested, check for 700." The metallic disk was a C. B. & Q. railroad baggage check numbered 700.

Getting Ready For a Fight.

On the way to Richmond Sherman paid but slight attention to dress, but when he did the staff knew something was going to happen. "There is going to be a fight today, sure," said Colonel Audenreid of the staff one morning.

"How can you tell?" asked a comrade.

"Why, man, the general's over there by the fire putting on a clean collar."

That day Cheraw with 40 cannon fell into the hands of the army.—Human Documents.

"Did you read that story about 'The House on the Bluff'?" asked the literary boarder.

"No," answered the cheerful idiot.

"What was it—a boarding house?"—Indianapolis Journal.

THERE is little danger of Columbiana county dropping out of public notice as long as Demon Marlatt survives.

CHEERING indeed are the reports from all parts of the country. Even the silver states of the west seem to have taken another breath, with the determination to prosper.

THE improvement in the crockery trade continues, with every assurance that there will be no cessation until Christmas. Then look out for big business next year.

IF the weather men of the metropolitan press know anything about it, the coming winter will be the greatest demonstration of mean weather ever known in the country.

THE claims of the Populists amount to nothing, since Secretary Morton shows in his report that 72 per cent of the farms of this country are without mortgages or other incumbrances.

IT may not be policy for this government to interfere to prevent the outrages in the Armenian country, but it would certainly be an exhibition of humanity demanded of our boasted Christian principles.

NOR a day passes without some congressman of sound sense declaring against the Dingley bill and in favor of a protective measure. They realize that a Republican congress should enact Republican legislation.

IF the Republican leaders will but shut out the gold Democrats who claim recognition for their efforts in the late campaign, and not allow their low tariff ideas to find a place in the next administration, there is no doubt about the return of prosperity.

THOMAS F. BAYARD, our Democratic ambassador to England, again showed his contempt for things American by refusing the invitation of the American society in London, yesterday. One good result of the election will be the removal of Mr. Bayard, it is hoped, as soon as possible.

WHEN the Democrats have no other question to occupy their time, they turn their attention to some fancied war of factions in the Republican party. Having been soundly thrashed for a number of years in Ohio they have started on the old lines, and are laying awake at nights thinking of how they can show the Sherman men standing over Governor Bushnell with a knife at that gentleman's throat.

INTELLIGENT IMMIGRANTS.
A congressional committee now has in its keeping a bill, introduced during the last session, which says that ignorant foreigners shall not come to the United States to take up a residence. The bill will be reported early in the coming session, and there is no good reason why it should not be made a law at the earliest opportunity. When the country was prosperous and the word spread through southern Europe that America was the home for the poor man, thousands of the ignorant and debased crossed the ocean. They were offered every inducement and advantage by the steamship companies, and swarmed every port on the Atlantic seaboard. The hard times stopped the flood. There were no special advantages here, and they remained at home. All the world knows what that indiscriminate admission of foreigners has cost the country. There is no need to point out the evils of admitting the pauper and criminal classes to our land. We are about to have prosperity again. Within a few years the tide will swell with even greater numbers than in the past. We have no room for them, and congress cannot begin too soon to take the steps that will result in shutting them out.

NOT GOOD EVIDENCE.

It is an Easy Matter to Change Photographic Pictures.

Photographic copies of an original, it is claimed, are not acceptable as proof before a court, inasmuch as the photographs may easily be changed to suit the wish. Expert picture makers can take a photograph, and by various processes secure a composite containing several features desired that did not exist in the original.

A celebrated photographer of this city declared that it is an easy matter to change photographs. Pictures can be made to show the body of one person with the head of another, or it is possible to insert certain features desired in a photograph. The producers of art photographs often use the form of one subject and the head of another in order to obtain the most symmetrical results and thus form a sort of composite picture.

"By the use of nitric acid," he said, "any part of the silver print photograph, the one commonly used, can be erased. If the picture were a platinum print, which is unlikely, the same effect could be secured by the use of aqua regia or a liquid composed of a mixture of nitric and muriatic acids, which acts as a solvent for gold or platinum prints." It was shown that original signatures could be erased and others pasted or copied thereon and then a photograph taken which would seem that the result was a perfect photograph of an original paper.—Philadelphia Call.

The first manufactory of edged tools, including axes, hatchets, chisels and cutlery, was opened in Hartford, in the year 1826. Previous to that date it is said that coarse butcher knives and hunting knives were made by blacksmiths, and the better quality of cutlery was imported from England.

TONSILINE CURES SORE THROAT.

Read what a well-known Minister writes us about Tonsiline:

East Palestine, O., April 8, 1895.

The Tonsiline Co.: I take pleasure in saying that we have used Tonsiline in the family for ulcerated sore throat, and it not only seemed to prevent the attack from being so severe as formerly, but cured the throat completely in a very few days. When any one of us has sore throat of any kind, the rush is for the Tonsiline bottle, and that is the last of it. It is certainly a most excellent remedy.

Yours very truly,

D. F. DICKSON.

TONSILINE SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOME.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

THOUGHTS SUGGESTED BY THE ANNUAL HARVEST FESTIVAL.

Its Origin and Ancient Manner of Observance—Its Modern Significance—The Country Feast—A Tempting Banquet. The Perfect Form of Giving Thanks.

An annual harvest festival of Thanksgiving has been by no means peculiar to this country or even to modern ages. Indeed the Hebrews had their harvest festivals, the principal one being the autumn feast of Ingathering (feast of the Tabernacles), a thanksgiving for the whole produce of the wine press, of the fruit orchards and the cornfields. Similarly, too, the Greeks and Romans had festival seasons in honor of Demeter, or Ceres, the goddess of agriculture. All those were sanctioned by religious rite, games and joyous indulgence in the pleasures of the table. So our Thanksgiving Day has a noble descent in history, and the Puritans of Massachusetts not only showed their piety, but their scholarship, in some of the old sermons still extant. A discourse of the celebrated Dr. Cotton Mather on Thanksgiving is curious in its learning concerning the prototypes of the Puritan festival among the nations of the past. It shows how well the fathers knew they had linked themselves with a great historic observance.

However the day has become shorn of its religious quality in the minds of the masses, who, sincerely enjoy the Thanksgiving turkey, its connection with worship is always earnestly enjoyed by state and federal proclamations. It is indeed the sole religious festival observed in the United States by virtue of civil authority. The annual practice in New England during colonial times was initiated after awhile by the Dutch and English governors of New York, and the continental congress proclaimed the festival annually during the war of struggle. It remained afterward, however, a purely state affair till, in 1863, President Lincoln began the practice of proclaiming an annual Thanksgiving annually.

In the earlier time Thanksgiving day was the most important of American festivals, for Christmas was looked on with more or less suspicion by the rigid Puritans. Aside from churchgoing, shooting with the rifle at turkeys was the most widespread habit of the day. This is still practiced to some extent in the purely rural communities. Novadays, however, the overshadowing feature of the holiday in the way of amusements is the prevalence of the great football and other games selected for that date. Our universities make it the occasion of their most brilliant athletic contests. Out of the cities where the more important of these friendly battles would naturally occur local games are arranged which perhaps evoke as much interest among the spectators. It is curious to observe that, among all the strong and servile nations this tendency to connect national festivals with athletic contests has been all but universal. Among the Americans, Englishmen and Germans of today, the cognate branches of the Teutonic family, this is specially noticeable.

The religious exercises of Thanksgiving nearly always look in some way toward matters of national gratitude rather than those of individual thanks. So we expect the church addresses to be largely of a political character, dealing with topics of public morals. Our ministers naturally avail themselves of this escape valve to discharge views of political questions once a year, and many a good stump speech, as well as some poor ones, have been thus shot from the battery of the pulpit. Not a few of the most powerful and eloquent addresses of Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. Dr. Stivers, Dr. Hall, Dr. E. H. Chapin and other preaching celebrities have owed themselves to this occasion. A sermon delivered by the Rev. Dr. Palmer of New Orleans on Thanksgiving day, 1890, is said to have aroused and crystallized sectional sentiment scarcely less than Mirabeau's oratory did the revolutionary sentiment at the convocation of the French states general in 1789. So, while most of the Thanksgiving pulpit talking may lack pith and fire, it sometimes becomes a projectile of monstrous force and effect.

But, after all is said, one must confess that the true modern significance of Thanksgiving is that of the feast day—the family feast day. It gathers the scattered branches together from far and wide to sacrifice at the altar of family love, where are enshrined the Lares and Penates of the old home. There is something of this feeling, too, at Christmas, but it chiefly touches the individuals of each family branch. Thanksgiving seeks the gathering of the clan and becomes in many cases perhaps the most beautiful and delightful occasion of the year, full of the purest joy and sweetness, a veritable fountain of refreshment. The spectacle of three or four generations of a family assembled together from distant dwelling places under the ancient family roof-tree is charged with the heart's truest poetry. The significance is not that it surfeits the belly with toothsome and succulent dainties, but that it fills the soul brimful of love and sympathy, effervescing anew after long absence.

It is in the country that the finest joys of Thanksgiving are found. They go with turkey and pumpkin pie, not with terrapin and canvasback; with sparkling apple juice, not with champagne. The crisp, pure air, the association of rural life revived again with exhilarating freshness, the warming of family ties, the homely, appetizing dishes, into whose concocting the cook has poured the purest love and joy of the heart as well as fragrant spices and sweets, make up something which no banquet of Lucullus could equal. Many a worldworn spirit has found in such an occasion a new sense flaming out of the ashes of ennui and weariness, that, after all, life is well worth living. And so may it be always.

We have said nothing in this article about the giving of thanks, which the name of the day emphasizes. Well, perhaps the indulgence of love and innocent joy and the new birth of all the best sympathies of one's nature are as perfect a form of thanksgiving to the great Creator of all as prayer and psalm singing within the walls of the chapel. Without the first named all else is but as "sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal."

APPEARANCES.

As the twilight was creeping across the sky from the east to the west, where the crimson dye

Of a gorgeous sunset was growing warm In the shadows that rise when the sun is gone In a sumptuous languor of dreamy ease And a wrapper resplendent with spots of grace, On the little back porch of an upper flat The imperial Ethel McFadden sat.

In her beautiful eyes was a look demure And the hint of a soul that was sweetly pure As the morning dew in the pouting buds Or a cake of soap in a tub of suds, And the beautiful face of this West Side queen Was suffused with a saintly, angelic mien.

"How I long, how I long," she soliloquized In a voice a chorus girl would have prized, "To be able to do, to achieve some deed For the suffering victims of sordid greed!" "Are you going to wash up the dishes, my dear?"

Came a voice from the kitchen, invitingly clear. But a lofty fire in her soul was lit. And her red lips unclasped in a clear cut

FLOTATION OF SPIDERS.

An English Writer Discusses the Subject and Cites Some Instances.

In an interesting communication to Knowledge on "Spiders," the Rev. Samuel Barber discusses at some length the phenomenon of the flotation line, and its method of attachment, which is the foundation of the spider's web. Is it not evident, asks the reverend gentleman, that air—and probably at a high temperature—must be enclosed within the meshes of the substance forming the line when it passes from the spinnerets into the atmosphere? The creature with this substance lifts it into the air. It has been usual to explain the ascent by the kite principle—namely, the mechanical force of the contiguous atmosphere—but air movements, especially on a small scale, are so capricious and uncontrollable that without a directive force the phenomena seem quite inexplicable.

In support of this theory of a direct propelling force Mr. Barber gives some of his own observations. Writing one day with two sheets of quarto before him, he saw a small spider on the paper, and in order to test its power of passing through the air he held one of the sheets of paper about a foot from that on which the creature was running. It ascended to the edge and vanished, but in a moment it landed upon the other sheet through midair in a horizontal direction, and picked up the thread as it advanced. In this case there was no air movement to facilitate, nor any time to throw a line upward, which indeed would not have solved the difficulty. On another occasion, at a dinner party in Kent, four candles were lighted on the table, when a thread was seen to be strung from the tip of one of the lighted candles and attached to another about a yard off, and all the four lights were connected in this way, and that by a web drawn quite tight.

The only explanation which Mr. Barber can suggest for this remarkable occurrence is that the spinner was suspended at first by a vertical line from above and thus swayed itself to and fro from tip to tip of the candles. It was certain the spider could not have ascended from the table, and it was equally certain that aerial flotation of the line from a fixed point was impossible, as it involved floating in four opposite directions. The rapidity with which the initial movements in forming a web are made cannot be reconciled with any theory of a simple atmospheric convection, and propulsion appears the only explanation.

Spirited Chemistry.

A French savant thinks that by the year 2000 a spiritual chemistry will have been discovered that should entirely change human nature. This will be greatly due to chemistry utilizing the heat of the sun and tapping the central heat of the globe. Under the reign of chemistry the earth, we are told, will become a vast pleasure garden and the human race will live in peace and plenty.

PUNCH AND JUDY.

The Origin of This Ever Popular English Entertainment.

Generations of children have found pleasure in witnessing the antics of Punch and Judy, and after nearly a century of popularity the mimic theater in which their adventures are displayed still gives amusement to both young and old. The origin of this always attractive entertainment is not English, as many have enjoyed it may suppose; but, according to an old book, Punch and Judy are of Italian ancestry. In the district of Acozza, near Naples, the people are very much addicted to the making of wine from grapes, and it is curious that from antiquity they have been famous for their love of droll wit and comic fun.

Many years ago, in the season of the vintage, which is a time when every village seems to be full of fun and frolic, some comic players came along through Acozza. They began to poke fun at the vintagers, and in the war of wit the players got the worst of it.

Now, there was among the vintagers a fellow with an enormous red nose, long and crooked like a powder horn, and he was the very drollest and wittiest of the whole company. The players were so tickled with his witty sayings, all set off by his odd face and very queer air and manner, that they almost went into hysterics with laughter.

After they went away they began to think that this droll fellow would be a great accession to their company; so they went back and made offers to him. These he accepted, and such was the success of his efforts that the company acquired great fame and a great deal of money. Everybody went to see this witty buffoon, and all were delighted.

This example led to the establishment of a droll or buffoon in all companies of comedians, and he was always called after the original one, whose name was Pucco d'Aniello. This was in the course of time softened into Policciello. The French made it Polichinelle, and the English Punchinello. After a time the English, for the sake of brevity, left off the latter part of the word and called it plain Punch.

How Judy originated history does not record, but it is very easy to surmise her story. Such a merry fellow as Punch had as good a right to a wife as anybody, if he could get one. Why not? One might think that his beetlelike nose would have stood in the way of his finding a woman willing to marry him, but his wit was an offset to this. Women are fond of wit, and Punch would have played his part ill if he could not have made it cover his nose.

Now that we have supposed Punch to have had a wife, and also supposed her name to have been Judy, what more natural than for this amiable couple now and then to have had a bit of a breeze? They lived a wandering life, and, like other people in their station, took a little liquor to raise their spirits. After the effect was over, feeling a little peevish, they fell to calling each other hard names, and hard blows followed; so this is their whole history.—Detroit Free Press.

A Check For $700.

There was once a comedian who out-finned Edward E. Rice. Startling as the statement may seem, it is nevertheless true that when this farcure retired from Mr. Rice's company he owed the manager $700. To Mr. Rice the condition was not alone unusual—it was also irksome. One morning, when he was fretting under it, he learned that the actor had secured a first rate engagement at a large salary. He sat down and wrote an urgent letter, finishing with a demand for an immediate remittance of "a check for 700." In due course he received a communication by mail containing a heavy metallic disk. The letter read:

"Dear Ned—Yours received. Find inclosed, as requested, check for 700." The metallic disk was a C, B. & Q. railroad baggage check numbered 700.

Getting Ready For a Fight.

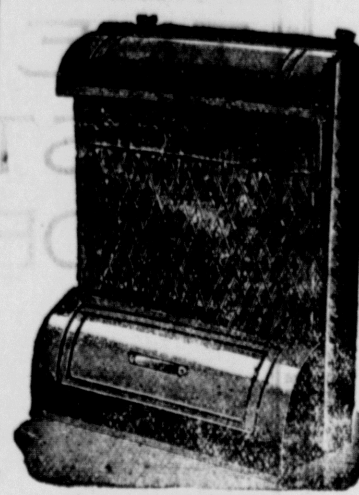

On the way to Richmond Sherman paid but slight attention to dress, but when he did the staff knew something was going to happen. "There is going to be a fight today, sure," said Colonel Audenreid of the staff one morning. "How can you tell?" asked a comrade.

"Why, man, the general's over there by the fire putting on a clean collar." That day Cheraw with 40 cannon fell into the hands of the army.—Human Documents.

"Did you read that story about 'The Horse on the Bluff?' asked the literary boarder.

"No," answered the cheerful idiot. "What was it—a boarding house?"—Indianapolis Journal.

TOOK CARBOLIC ACID

Mrs. Ellis Core Was Weary of This Life.

HER THROAT IS SORE TODAY

And Her Stomach Is Burned. But It Is Thought She Will Recover—A Family Quarrel Caused the Act—She Swallowed Half an Ounce of the Stuff.

Mrs. Ellis T. Core did her best to end her life last night, but she told her husband about it, and he summoned a doctor who arrived in time to save her.

Mrs. Core is the wife of a claymaker at the Globe pottery, and lives with her husband and child on St. George street in East End. Yesterday she was not in the best of spirits, and last night she quarreled with her husband. She left the room in a rage at 8 o'clock, and going upstairs swallowed half an ounce of carbolic acid. In a few minutes her husband appeared, and she told him all about it. He hastened to the office of Dr. R. J. Marshall, and in a short time Mrs. Core had been pumped out, and her life was saved. Her throat and stomach were badly burned by the drug, but she is very much better today although still suffering from the effects of the poison. The only explanation given is that Mrs. Core tired of life, and thinking the drug would soon do its work told her husband without any hope of him calling a physician in time to save her life.

Sunday in Chinatown.

The population of Chinatown on Sunday is about 4,000 or 5,000, on weekdays very much less. The difference may be accounted for by the fact that on Sunday the Chinese from all parts of New York and Brooklyn, and from Long Island, New Jersey and Connecticut towns, flock to Chinatown to visit their friends and to do business. Since the American Sunday does not permit laundry work on that day, the laundrymen seize upon it as a general recreation day and go to Chinatown by hundreds. This, therefore, is the great business day of that region, and all the stores are open and every employee is constantly occupied.

Here the laundrymen buy all their dry groceries, their clothing and their laundry supplies. Here, also, are the great family headquarters whither comes the mail from China and where the Chinese meet to discuss the affairs of their people and incidentally the various phases of American anti-Chinese legislation.—"The Chinese of New York," by Helen F. Clark, in Century.

Married in Lisbon.

Walter W. Allen, of this city, and Miss Savannah M. Dillard, of Lisbon, were married at that place yesterday at noon by Reverend Morton, pastor of the First M. E. church. The groom is a justly popular young man, while the bride is a most estimable young lady of the county seat. The happy couple have gone to housekeeping on Seventh street.

You Can't Afford to Chance It.

A heavy cold may lead to pneumonia or consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar taken in time affords perfect security from serious results.

For sale by Reed's and Bulger's drug stores.

How It Got There.

A young man took his watch to a jeweler and asked the reason of it stopping. "Well," said the jeweler, "there is a bedbug in it." "Why, how could a bedbug get in a watch?" "Easily enough," said the jeweler, "it went in between the ticks."—Hennessy Press Democrat.

You ought to know that when suffering from any kidney trouble that a safe, sure remedy is Foley's Kidney cure. Guaranteed or money refunded.

For sale by Reed's and Bulger's drug stores.

SOCIAL PURITY.

A Permanent Club Has Been Organized in Wellsville.

The last organization formed in this place bears the name of the Social Purity club, and is composed of leading members of the M. E. church, with the Rev. Dr. Reager as leader. It is proposed to inaugurate a systematic crusade against vice in all its forms, and to free the town as far as possible from iniquity. It is understood that moral suasion will be the means adopted, but if this fails they may appeal to the law.

FIVE WANDERERS

Were Captured For Riding Without Tickets.

Detective Meenan captured five wanderers on an east bound freight yesterday, and locked them up at city hall. They gave their homes as Uhrichsville, Cleveland and Braddock. Mayor Jones fined them $5 each, and three were so fortunate as to have the money. They paid the assessment. The others were committed to jail.

HIGH SCHOOL ORATORS.

They Discussed the Question of Cuban Rights.

No Humbug.

Foley's Honey and Tar does not claim to perform miracles. It does not claim to cure all cases of consumption or asthma. But it does claim to give comfort and relief in advanced stages of these diseases and to usually cure early stages. It is certainly worth trying by those afflicted or threatened with these dread diseases.

For sale by Reed's and Bulger's drug stores.

TOOK CARBOLIC ACID

Mrs. Ellis Core Was Weary of
This Life.

HER THROAT IS SORE TODAY

And Her Stomach Is Burned, But It Is Thought She Will Recover—A Family Quarrel Caused the Act—She Swallowed Half an Ounce of the Stuff.

Mrs. Ellis T. Core did her best to end her life last night, but she told her husband about it, and he summoned a doctor who arrived in time to save her.

Mrs. Core is the wife of a claymaker at the Globe pottery, and lives with her husband and child on St. George street in East End. Yesterday she was not in the best of spirits, and last night she quarreled with her husband. She left the room in a rage at 8 o'clock, and going upstairs swallowed half an ounce of carbolic acid. In a few minutes her husband appeared, and she told him all about it. He hastened to the office of Dr. R. J. Marshall, and in a short time Mrs. Core had been pumped out, and her life was saved. Her throat and stomach were badly burned by the drug, but she is very much better today although still suffering from the effects of the poison. The only explanation given is that Mrs. Core tired of life, and thinking the drug would soon do its work told her husband without any hope of him calling a physician in time to save her life.

Sunday in Chinatown.

The population of Chinatown on Sundays is about 4,000 or 5,000, on weekdays very much less. The difference may be accounted for by the fact that on Sunday the Chinese from all parts of New York and Brooklyn, and from Long Island, New Jersey and Connecticut towns, flock to Chinatown to visit their friends and to do business. Since the American Sunday does not permit laundry work on that day, the laundrymen seize upon it as a general recreation day and go to Chinatown by hundreds. This, therefore, is the great business day of that region, and all the stores are open and every employee is constantly occupied.

Here the laundrymen buy all their dry groceries, their clothing and their laundry supplies. Here, also, are the great family headquarters whither comes the mail from China and where the Chinese meet to discuss the affairs of their people and incidentally the various phases of American anti-Chinese legislation.—"The Chinese of New York," by Helen F. Clark, in Century.

Married in Lisbon.

How It Got There.

A young man took his watch to a jeweler and asked the reason of it stopping. "Well," said the jeweler, "there is a bedbug in it." "Why, how could a bedbug get in a watch?" "Easily enough," said the jeweler, "it went in between the ticks."—Hennessy Press-Democrat.

You ought to know that when suffering from any kidney trouble that a safe, sure remedy is Foley's Kidney cure. Guaranteed or money refunded.

No Humberg.

Foley's Honey and Tar does not claim to perform miracles. It does not claim to cure all cases of consumption or asthma. But it does claim to give comfort and relief in advanced stages of these diseases and to usually cure early stages. It is certainly worth trying by those afflicted or threatened with these dread diseases.
